Odd heifer slightly agitated when pressured but worked through the yards respectfully, Typical of young station bred heifers that have just calved they dont want high amounts of pressure but relax and calm down when left alone. Heifers appreciated being handled in low stress environment.

Assessor Comments	A very nice line of very well bred Angus heifers with their 1st calf at foot. Calves are by Keringa Angus stud bull ID provided in bull info. These heifers all calved 100% naturally and have taken to the motherhood task like a dream. They are proving to be outstanding matrons for the future with there ability to produce milk and look after there new calves. Heifers are nice types and offer a lifetime of of breeding for someone. Ready to join to the bull of your choice and present in a healthy fresh condition to bred again. Note 2 heifers shown in photos have small white strip in front of naval & 1 heifer notice small amount of what looked to be small ring worm spots not effecting in any way & 1 heifer was treated for pinkeye at assessment and will be treated again onto the truck.
