|                    | Freshly weaned calves being worked the first few times at assessment. Normal behavior for weaners. Worked very well through the yards and should be quieter to handle by delivery. Not assessed in the paddock (vendor comment - any poor temperament cows are culled). Ones that were slightly stirry in the crush settled immediately upon joining the mob.                                |                                           |                                     |
