These heifers didn't particularly like too much pressure in the yards whilst assessing and made it difficult to take photos as they wouldn't stand still. There is definitely no aggressive behavior within the mob that should be concerned about, more or less a lack of handling in certain scenarios to make them feel more comfortable.

Assessor Comments	Villa Brae Pastoral Company are offering a small draft of Angus heifers that will suit a multitude of operations due to their exceptional breeding & ideal specification weight range. Generally, these females are sold through the system in early January and purchased by repeat buyers year on year for their performance. Villa Brae Pastoral made the decision to retain these females due to the market trend at the time & had sufficient feed at hand, this now presents a fantastic opportunity for a successful purchaser to take these females onto the next chapter of their lives.
