|                    | Steers were placid and compliant at all times during assessment, (refer to video). Steers have been well handled and trained with quiet and capable dogs. The steer that was listed as slightly stirry slipped through a gate at drafting and became anxious to get back to his mates, but settled when returned. Refer to video of steers following weighing. |            |                                           |                 |                                     |             |              |

| Assessor Comments  | A smaller line of well bred black backgrounder steers. Steers are by bulls that have been meticulously selected for their carcass attributes and out of a quality Angus and Angus/Shorthorn cow herd cow herd. Consider suitable to either background to export feeder specs or alternatively fatten to high quality carcasses on either grass or grain. One steer has a single eye with old pinkeye scarring and 4 steers are either blue roan or have white between their flank and brisket, refer to photos and media. |
