These steers were a delight to handle yarding up from the cooler into the yards & to work through the pound and the crush. The steers that were stirry & slightly stirry in the crush were from being isolated or asked to stand on the platform for too long or while being mouthed but once out of the head bale and back in the big yard they settled quickly. They were very good to walk through and take photos of, little to no rush being moved from yard to yard.
