	Quiet: 38 head	Quiet: 38 head	Temperament not assessed in Paddock
	These cows are generally quiet and have been a pleasure to handle. All were easily drafted off their calves and moved calmly through the race and crush, exiting at a steady, relaxed pace. Their temperament makes them well-suited to handlers of all experience levels, from novice to seasoned stockpersons.
Handled With	Bikes , On foot , Vehicles
Assessor Comments	This line of mixed-age Angus cows represents a valuable opportunity for any producer looking to establish or expand a high-quality herd. These proven breeders, each with robust calves at foot, have been a strong asset to the vendor's operation. Vendors calves usually feature in the first lane of the Wangaratta premier feature weaner sales in January. With the right management and nutrition, they are sure to perform. Whether you're planning an early split job next year or seeking dependable breeders to support long-term production, this line holds strong potential. some cows show minor imperfections in their feet and udder, yet remain structurally sound and fit for their age.
