The steers have been well handled. They moved easily through the yards and crush. A % became agitated while in the crush and being mouthed, however settled once released. Typical of young cattle with a few nervous when pressured but settling when the pressure was released.

Handled With	Bikes , Dogs , Horses
Assessor Comments	A quality lot of EU angus composite steers account the breeder showing good bone and weight for age. Healthy in the coat and on the move forward, these steers will grow on and make premium market specs. The steers have had access to both hay and pellets in a feeder in the paddock. The steers were good to handle through the process, however typical of young cattle with a few nervous when pressured. The steers will settle further with additional handling. Noted 5 steers with white on the face and 7 steers displaying higher brangus content. Please view photos and videos.
