These lambs have plenty of frame and will continue to grow/fatten into trade/export weights given the opportunity on higher quality feed. Lambs are still fresh in the skin and have all been crutched.                                                                                                                              |            |                                       |
