This line of vealer steers have a great temperament due to being managed intensely through the cell grazing system, moved every 1-3 days. Only the second time through the yards they were a pleasure to work with. They are still running with the cows and have been trained to 1 hot wire paddocks.

30 Head	Ring worm/ hair loss around eyes.

Assessor Comments	A quality line of young vealer steers that have not seen a set back in their lives coming off the back of a great winter season. They are predominantly black coated soft easy doing cattle that will only go one way given the opportunity. Due to the constant rotation through the vendors cell grazing system these calves have great temperament. When drafted off their mothers for assessment they were unfazed and well settled. Offering a great opportunity to put a nice line of store steers together to background through the summer. One steer looked to be a few months older than the rest however is out of the same herd and fits this lot. When assessing the odd ring worm was found around eye and one displayed minor old pink eye scaring not considered detrimental.
