| Assessor Comments      | A line of Angus steers carrying high-quality Te Mania, Jarabee, Fernleigh and Kenny's Creek Angus genetics. These steers present in working condition due to the tough season but still show good underlying frame, bone and structure. Under normal seasonal conditions these cattle would typically be offered as feeder steers, reflective of their breeding and growth potential. Steers have been affected by pinkeye earlier in the season and are carrying old, healed blemishes. A small number show a light touch of ringworm, typical for the time of year. None of these issues are detrimental to performance, and the mob remains sound and mobile. Despite seasonal pressure, these cattle are good, hearty types that will respond rapidly to quality feed, with the genetics and frame to grow out efficiently for feedlot or bullock markets. A practical opportunity to secure well-bred Angus steers with proven performance backgrounds at a value point. |        |  |         |                  |        |          |
