	Heifers are all mostly slightly stirry. Vendor works off farm and their cattle are only handled at certain points throughout the year. I believe with further handling these heifers have the potential to quieten down. Nothing assessed was aggressive in any way but they were consistently trying to escape pressure. Just cattle that are a little stubborn but nothing hard to handle for anyone with any sort of stock handling skills.

Assessor Comments	Presented are 27 NSM Bongongo blood Angus Heifers. Annual sale of vendors surplus heifers. Out of a well bred herd of females and predominately by lease bulls selected by the studs principle. Heifers will mature into a nice line of cows given the opportunity or likewise would continue to have good weight gains to meet feeder and domestic markets given their doing ability.
