Assessor Comments	Buyers a quality draft of the Rynne families Angus steers on offer, these cattle have their working clothes on and if given fresh feed would perform exceptionally well. The steers have been properly weaned and educated for 4 months and were very easy to handle at assessment. These steers have not had optimal seasonal conditions but have continued to perform on the short feed available to them, these steers have recently had access to rumen productive pellets for 6 weeks to ensure they have the nutrition to keep idling along in the current dry conditions and to ensure they can reach their full potential later in life. These steers present in an ideal body condition for prospective purchasers, they present in store condition with plenty of frame to continue to grow. This run of steers would usually be retained and grown out and marketed into heavy long fed Angus feeder programmes but are available now due to the season. The family's Angus cattle are noted performers on the ground and on the hook. These steers are very well bred with top genetics behind them, the Rynne family go through rigorous selection processes when selecting new sires for their herd.
