Assessor Comments	Top quality line of Angus heifers on account of the Casey Family, "Killarney." Vendor-bred and well grown, these heifers display outstanding depth, softness, and overall quality. The Casey family has incorporated Lawson and Annaleine Angus genetics into their commercial breeding program for the past 17 years, with a strong emphasis on growth, maternal performance, temperament, and fertility. As a result, these heifers are expected to develop into highly productive cows and offer genuine genetic improvement for purchasers running self-replacing herds. These females tick all the boxes as future breeders, while also carrying a proven record of outstanding performance in feedlot programs. Their consistency and quality have made them highly sought after by repeat feedlot buyers year after year. The Killarney herd is widely regarded as one of the leading commercial Angus herds in the Adelong district, making this an excellent opportunity to secure a line of quality replacement females backed by generations of proven performance. These heifers come highly recommended by the assessor.
