	These heifers were easy to move around the yards but do tend to have a bit of trot in them in the bigger yards. In the race and crush they were difficult to handle and tended to push in the race making it hard to handle them when they got to the crush. There is absolutely nothing in the mob considered aggressive however. The temperament of these could have been impacted by extremely hot conditions causing them to stir up a bit.
Handled With	Bikes , Dogs , Horses
Assessor Comments	Buyers a two-deck lot of good quality yearling milk tooth heifers that have presented in store to forward store condition. Heifers are really on the do and show pretty good weight for age. They will suit a multitude of orders including as domestic feed lot heifers or to take through to heavier grass MSA domestic slaughter markets. However, they would be best suited for restockers looking to secure future breeders to replenish depleted herds. They are ready to take a bull of choice right now and have been pregnancy tested non detectable by the vendor. Noted approx. 10 with needle lumps on the neck, don't think they will be an issue (photo attached of the worst lump, balance nowhere near as bad). Also noticed 1 heifer with very light warts on the head and 1 heifer with a blue spot in her eye (not active blight). They will scratch clean on farm so won't get held up at the dip. Please be aware there are three lots of heifers and two lots of steers from this property in the sale.
